

Top Washington Lawyers

Technology
Transactions
WINNER

Greg Giammittorio

PARTNER,
MORRISON & FOERSTER,
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, J.D., 1988

Giammittorio had three main interests in college: law, politics and film.

“My father was a lawyer and a judge,” the 43-year-old says. “I loved the way people would drop by his study when I was a child and seek his advice on things.”

Giammittorio decided to go with law. But he cautions prophetically: “Film and politics may still be in my future.”

For now he’s willing to settle on helping the region’s — and the world’s — semi-conductor, telecom, satellite and IT firms secure financing, merge and partner with others and tackle licensing and distribution issues. Clients include one of the area’s hottest companies, XM Satellite Radio, and DP Associates and Freescale Semiconductor.

He counts his representation of a Madrid tech company, Amadeus Global Travel Distribution, in its acquisition of System One, a Houston-based company in the same market, as his most significant.

The Falls Church resident arrived at MoFo this March following several years at Shaw Pittman and Steptoe & Johnson.

He loves literature, soccer and basketball, and spending time with his wife, Dawnee Tate, and their two children.